W. H. Russell, the These correspondent is being considerably lionized both by the Administration, and the public at large. He dined with the President on Saturday, and had an interview with the Southern Commissioners yesterday. He has now laid out his route through the South, and will start in easy stages for Montgomery towards the end of the present week. The Scensionists will receive little mercy at his pen.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.
Collector Barney, of New York, was closeted with Mr. Chase nearly all day. The consideration of the New York and California appointments have now the precedence of all other matters with the Executive.

he "sympathy of Europe" that was for our wants. The Democratic 346 averaged as high as the act of Importers. Why can it not be enforced, pray? If the revenue officers can successfully collect 15 per cent, why not 30 as well? The sinugglers will run in their goods and cheat the Government along the line between the Union and seceded States, is the answer. In reply to this, we ask, how comes it that the sinugglers on the Canadian line, which stretches 3,000 miles along our Northern boundary have never succeeded in sinuggling to an extent worth naming? For twenty years past, the Canadian lariff on British goods has ranged from 10 to 15 per cent, which is as low as the proposed tariff of New Dahomey; while the American imposts have ranged from 40 per cent, in 1845—30 per cent i is ilroad runs, 19. brief seasion on Saturday, adjourned over to Wednesday affermeon. The Sensie refused to take a rocess, but occupied itself Saturday morning in discussing the matter till it was left, without a quorum, and can only adjourn over from day to day till the middle of the week. A feeling has been created between the two Houses with reference to this and other matters which may refard business. There are too many would-be leaders in the Legislature who want to get the glory of carrying this, or defining that measure, who think more of a little political capital to be made for themselves than of the interest of the State; too many "smart men," continually on the lookout lest some one may get ahead of them, for harmonious action and the public good.

I send you herewith the plan of apportioning the State into Senste and Assembly Districts as reported by the Committee. It has passed the Senate and will doubtless pass the Assembly with but little if any change. It gives very general satisfaction. The Senators in the even numbered Districts are to be elected this full for two years, and those in the list and 33d, which are additional Districts, for one year.

so arranged that it is difficult to make weak shaped districts of the right population, but there are no such obstacles in the way as so justify some proposed "formations" which it would puzzle even the most scientific geologist to classity. Of the districts proposed, per have the worst shaped its ees licitiding Columbis, Green Lake, Fone du Lac, Sheborgan and Ozaukee counties, though another composed of Rock, Jefferson, Doe ge and Washington is nearly as bad. Any reasonable division of the State would make one or two districts almost hopeleasly Democratic. Of course ambitious Republicans residing therein don't want to be left out in the cold in that way, but that is no reason why the Republicans should disgrace themselves by an unfair apportionment which might endanger half the districts in the State.
Republicans in districts that would be strongby Democratic could better afford to trust to the dissenations and jesticasies of their opponents, hoping to divide and conquer.

The Senate indefinitiely postponed the bill providing for the publication of 1,000 copies of Prof. Hall's Report of the Geological Survey. It seems strange that the State should thus refuse to vail herself of the results of the benefits that would accrue from the publication of the report of a survey that has now cost, as prosecuted in different hands, over $$3,000. The Assembly, on Thursday, laid on the table the bill modifying the Personal Liberty law, by a vote of 4t to 40. The motion to lay on the table, eranelly choked off the speaches which a large number of members are charged with. The bill attempted to repeal more of the law than was necessary. One only striking out the sections as to the constitututonality of which there is doubt, would have passed if any disposition had been shown on the part of the Southern States to reciprocate. A joint resolution has passed the Legislature for an smendment to the Constitution increasing the Governor's salary to $$,

Judge Shaw was one of the ablest law years in the United States and a most estimable man. His personal appearance was far from preposeessing, which rendered him at times the subject of personal but always good natured ridicate. Mr. Choate once said of him: "We venerate the Chief Institute of the waster of force on the said of him?"

Justice, not for any beauty of form or feature, but for the supposed hidden intelligence within." This remark was probably the basis for the indicrous story that at a law club forty years he has been connected with the Theological Seminary of Yale College.

— Our latest European advices bring intelligence of the death of the Duchess of Kent, mother of Queen Victoria, and aunt of Prince Albert. The deceased Duchess, whose chris-tian name was Maria Louisa Victoria, was a insighter of Francia, Duke of Save-Sasifield Coburg, was born on the 17th of August, 1786, and was consequently in her 75th year. Her first husband, Prince Eurich of Leiningen, was well known as a brutal tyrani, and he treated his wife with poculiar cruelty He died in 1814. The marriage of Edward, Duke

THE ORIGINAL STRIFFE.

If secession shall ever be so thoroughly monplished as to be acknowledged by a people of the United States and the names of the world, we shall find ourselves alrouned by the very question which has almost the strife, and we shall probably sobliged to settle it with the sword. This position is simply: "Shall MAYENT BE RESIDED?" Jeff. Davis's government by Yes. The way to bring about this great and important end was by withdrawing the French garrison from Rome, and leaving the Pope and Victor Emanuel, Cardinal Antonelli and Count Cavour to arrange the matter to sult themselves.

If this be done, he says that France will attach twenty-five millions of Italians to her by bonds of the strongest friendship her by bonds of the strongest friendship and gratitude, and will receive the earnest thanks of the British nation. But if France maintains her armed intervention at Rome she will have for compensation only the prayers of some bigoted Bishops and the Pope's Irish Brigade!

It is reported that the Emperor warmly thanked his cous in for his splendid speech, and told him that he highly approved of the greater part of it. scribe, current bank notes of the place will be received at their market value in coin. The great difficulty in procuring this loss consists in a want of confidence in the stability and permanence of the Southern Confederacy on the part of the secession. Is themselves. The Confederacy is held together by no legal bond. It has nothing stronger than antipathy to the Union to bind the insurgents. It is founded on the right of seession. Any State may withdraw at will, and there is no authority lodged with the Executive to prevent such secession. The Confederacy is not a nation in any proper sense. The acknowledgment of its independence-by the powers of the world, including the United States, would still leave it a mere league of States—each claiming to be sovereign and denying sovereignty to the Confederacy. The Government is only a sort of agency for the Cotton States, which may be revoked by the principals at any moment, when the whole thing would vanish as vapor.

Who, in his senses, will venture to lend money to a Government based on such principles? In the nature of the case he can have no security for his investment. There is no public faith which can be pledged. No body owes allegiance to it. The States claim all the allegiance of the eitizens, and the agency concern which

Very soon we may expect to hear that the order has been issued for the embarkation of the French garrison, when Rome will become the capital of Italy. The Venetian problem will then only remain to be solved. Prince Napoleon in the same speech hints at how that may be settled.
The situation of Venice, he remarked, is Babel of jarring interests and dis-ishment for the enactment. The excitement and violence of the Times is mainly due to misapprehension. Its articles were written before a copy of the new tariff reuched England. The New York Herald reached England. The New York Herald and Journal of Commerce which are advocates of free trade and slavery assailed the act, while it was pending before Congress, alledging that it would cut off all commerce between New York and Europe; that it was not only high protective but absolutely prohibitory. All sorts of objections were urged against it. One day it was so intricate that it never could be understood. Another that it was so high no goods would be imported under it. And since its passage these organs of the ingoods would be imported under it. And since its passage these organs of the im-porters have continued their assaults, and falsehoods without cessation. That these Journals are paid large sums by the agents of foreign manufactures and importing houses to continue their warfare against the American tariff, there is little doubt. From such corrupted sources the London Times derives its ideas of our new tariff, and thunders its anathemas against it. It and thunders its anathemas against it. It opens one of its "leaders" in this style of high fallutin:

"At a moment when the destinies of the great American Union are trembling in the balance and the Republic is memored with the worst catastrophas of civil war, its Legislature is engaged upon a measure which seems calculated at once to altenste foreign nations, to emblite aliment for the aniagonism unhappily subsisting between the two sections of the Confederacy."

It then proceeds to describe the law, using the identical language employed by the New York Herald. For example:

The duties imposed by the bill are not only im-rice of the London Times and the New York Herold, and a policy will be inaugurated which will "alienate loyalty, embitions with the New York Herold. For example:

The duties imposed by the bill are not only immoderately high, but they are levied upon imports of the first accessity. The strices taxed are not more laxwise, or commedities entering into the consumption of the options alone. It is upon cotton goods, wooden goods and hardware that the proposed that the result can be little short of a solite proposed that the result can be little short of a solite professibilition. Cultry is to be axed upwards of stry per can. In the loyalt is senty two hundred and stry. In addition to this, the bill enacts so many complicated strengements, and throws used inferminable obstructions in the way of business, that commerce will be next to impossible nader conditions as difficult.

The statement that the "duties imposed "are immedierately ligh," is sheer false bood, without a scribilition of the Journal of Journal of Commerce. The "third phila ph

Who will supply the missing thirty-odd millions a year? Where is it to come from? Can the New York Herald tell? We know the answer of the London Times. It will tell the American people to lay a direct tax on property. Its advice would be: "Break "down your manufactures; buy all your "fabrice from England, and levy a direct "tax on your people for the support of

How many Americans are willing to act on this advice? Let it be impressed on every mind, that if there is to be free trade with Europe, the Government must be appointed by direct reason. with Europe, the Government must be apported by direct taxes, and, if a low, advalorem tariff, like the present one, be insisted upon, taxes to the amount of some thirty millions a year must be levied upon the property of the people, or the Government must come to an end. Recognition.

[From the London News, March 12.]

Mr. Gregory has given notice that on an early day he will call the attention of her Majesty's Government to the expediency of a prompt recognition of the Southern Confederacy of American States. The practice of the British Government and the state of the socialed Southern Confederacy of American States. The practice of the British Government so escess is firmly established and well understood, vis.; to recognize all defacts Governments, irrespective of opinions, origin, or any circumstance but the fact of being the actually established ruling power. If ever, and whenever, that happens with the Southern States, which now profess to be a Confederacy, there can be no doubt but their being recognized by all the European Powers, and by England, with the utmest certainty and distinctiness. But the clase has not yet reached this stage; and it is very far from reaching it. The secession leaders who have assumed office do not pretend to be more than a provisional body; no appeal has been made to the people of their States; none of the constitutional conditions of republican organization have as yet been complied with; and none of the anticodents which were specified by the founders of the republic as justifying rebellion have occurred. The movers in the case have begged the question in regard to the right of secession; and there has as yet been no opportunity of reply on the other side. The whole matter the remains for treatment; and, in the most democratic country in the world, the great body of the people has been silent during a whole white of crisis, from actual want of opportunity to declare their opinion and will. There can be no recognition from without of any new claims put forth in such an interval; and the American antion has a right to expect from its foreign allies patience to wait till the people have spoken and as the formation of the claims.

Gov. Etlis of North Carolina.

It is said that the present Governor of North Carolina, Ellis, is rapidly dying of consumption, and that his death at the present time would have the effect of bringing a decided Socsasionist into the executive office. They have no themtone Governor in North Carolina, but the Constitution provides that, in case of the death or resignation of the Governor, his place is to be temporarily filled by the glysaker of the densite. It happens, on the present occasion, that the Speaker is a Socsasionist, and it is believed that smong his first official acts would be the call of an extra session of the Legulature, which body, being "Democratic," will authorite the election of another disc. The Culture of Cotton in Illinois.

[From the Illinois Farmer.]

In the present aspect of adalrs, it is well to take a wide survey of products that are capable of being produced in our State. Gotton, to within a few years, has been grawn in the south half of the State in unflicient quantity for domestic use, in furnishing the warp of the "linsey" that formed the almost entire clothing of both sexes. Cotton grais were not uncommon, but of a cheap and rude structure. We believe that cotton has never been grown as a crop for export within our limits, but each family providing its own supply, which was carded, spun and wove by hand, the common hand card, wheel and loom being all the implements used. When the West was opened up to the commerce of the world by the introduction of steam on our rivers, there came with it a demand, or rather market, for certain products which could be exchanged for textile abries, spun and wove by machinery driven by water power, the competition of which soon madeithe culture of cotton unprodicable, or rather this new condition of things made it more profusable to grow other stapies to exchange for the manufactured products of cotton. The cotton gins are allowed to decay, and the culture of what had been one of the encessities of the age, was discontinued, not that it failed to grow, for of the errolainty of the crop we hear no complaints, but of the want of cotton machinery to manufacture it he present time, we have no data from the past whereby to form an opinion. When we have no data from the past whereby to form an opinion, when we have no data from the past whereby to form an opinion, when we have not data from the past whereby to form an opinion, when we have not of the crops we have not omitted the arriver seater after in this respect, we see no reason why it may not be again resumed an a profitable crop. To say that it was thrown aside for the steel clipper; so that the old wheel and tho household, and the old-time "linesey" is almost the present time, for them the old-time will

The Constitution adopted by the Congress at Montgomery has been published to the world. That decument is one which to me is in the highest degree chjectionable. I cais not consent to the adoption of that Constitution without felling that I can fine to the faith which I have presented over visce I had a political faith. The first and the greatest error in the opinion which I have long held, ever since I held an opinion on political subjects, the first and the greatest error in the opinion which I have long held, ever ancestors committed, was in consenting to that compromise with the Northern States, by which two-fifth of the slaves in the Southern States were excluded in the numerical basis of representation. That, in my opinion, has been the great source of all the mischief that has taken place since. That originated the assumption, on the part of the Northern States, of the superiority of a non-slaveholding state of society. Our ancestors, by consenting to that compromise, yielded the advantage; they yielded the unmerical bower which they ought to have possessed if they had asserted then our equality of rights. That was the original great error of the South. I thought that, siter that tyronmical and corrapt Government had been chalten off, which is the state of the new Confederacy I find the very worst point of the old Constitution is to be perpetuated. If our Confederacy were to be confined to the seven States which have seconded the inequality would not very great. Still it would be considerable; and, as master of mere of principle, I should be unwilling to give to Georgie and Alabama, which have a unalier stave pop would give to the farmers of Cook and the eastern line of towns in Dupage County $150,000; the price ranging from eighteen to fifty cenis. The crop of last year was very large and the prices much lower, scarcely averaging twenty cents; at the same time the shipments have largely increased, and it is probable that the whole crop will find a market, though at hardly paying rates for the cost of production. The question now recurs, can this cost be so chaptend that at the present rate fit will pay? We answer that it can. It will be seen, by dealers at least, that when the price is low the demand south is large, and this demand will continue to increase. Fact for For Farsier.—Those farmers who have most difficulty to make both ends meet, always plough most and keep most stock. Now these men take the true plan to keep themselves always poor, because their crops and stock are always poor, and bring little, it is good prout to raise these most alked to be a subject that the head injured. Many farmers near makes not over the world of the latter we would say, if your land he neighbor's, at the same age, not he latter we would say, if your land a channised, plow no more then you can thoroughly manure, seed with clover and grass, and let it rest, and that field will not only pay welf for thing, but it will furnish manure (if rightly managed) to make another field of the same alse rich also. And then keep it rich, do not run it with grain until again exhansted, or the latter end of that and will be worse then the first.

heard the chief's bell tinkle rather excetedly. The sergeant answered it.

"Send Brandon to me," next reached my cars through the half-open door.

Before the sergeant could repeat the order, I had passed him, and was standing by the side of the chief.

"Sit down, Mr. Brandon," he said, as he continued making some notes is the register. I obeyed, and anxiously awaited his commanda.

I obeyed, and anxiously awaited his commands.

"I have a singular case before me this morning," he began, "and I am about to try your ingenuity to unravel it."

My expectations were aroused.
"On the 10th of last month, the Hon. Mr. F—gave a bail at his mansion in the Fifth avenue, which was attended by nearly all the site of the city."
"I remember it," I said.
"Do you remember what occurred there?"
"Almost every lady in the room lost some article of jewelry." I replied.
"Exactly, for which no one could account, as the party was most select, and it would have been an outrage to have suspected any one present of stealing in such a wholesale manner."
I acknowledged the justice of his remarks.

present of stealing in such a wholesale manher."

The chief continued:

On the 13th of the month a grand promenade concept was given as the Academy of Music, and the same thing occurred. This would not seem so singular, as there was plenty of opportunity for the professional pickposices; but the remarkable feature is that no gentlemen were robbed, but all who suffered were laddes."

"This is indeed singular," I replied.

"Perhape," responded the chief, in a dubious tone. "Now for the last event. Yesterday morning, as you have probably heard, Mr.

"As wisdom," she said smiling.

"Then invite Madame Delauncy "Then invite Madame Delauney to prome nade on the rear piazza; the night is beautifu—from there stray into the garden, and take up a position near the gate which opens into the next street. Keep her engaged, and be a tonished at nothing that occurs."

Belle arched her brows understandingly and nodded assent. I next strolled carelessly into the hall, opened the front door and looked out Raising my singer the driver of my own carriage approached. It is almost needless to state that he was a policeman in disgulae.

"What luck?" he asked.

"Good. Drive down the narrow street skirting the house, and stop at the garden gate."

The house was situated at the corner of a narrow street with a high brick wall extending from the rear to the next house. This wall accemed the little flower garden, and contained a gate for the servants.

When I returned to the drawing room, Betle and Madame Delanney were absent. I found them in the garden, plucking some flowers, and I joined them making some casual compliments. As soon as I joined them Belle started off for the house. Madame Delanney was about to follow, when I quickly arrested her.

"Madame Delanney, you are my prisoner!" "That would be the first conclusion," said the chief; "but, on the other hand, a man might perform the deed, confining his practice to fenales only to throw blame upon one of them."

I acknowledged the possibility of his singgestion, though it had little effect upon me.

"You have the particulars," continued the chief. "I give you one week to qolve the mystery, and to bring the selept to Justice, liters is a list of the principal losers. You shall sake your own course at the plans you shall follow. Good m. ming."

I knew that this case had been placed in my hands as a test of my skill, and resolved, if within the group of haman ingentity, to compass it. It was a most singular tase, occurring, as it did, in the very heart and centre of the first society. It was impossible to accuse any one on anapicion: there must be proof positive before a word could be uttered. How was it to be obtained?

I sat down and thought seriously, laying out my plans, as I grasped as teach point of the case. Then I arcse to act.

Dressing myself in the very height of fishion, I hired a carriage and drove to the house of the Hon. Mr. P.—— I found him at home, and stating my vocation and purpose, was invited into the library.

"I fear you have assumed a fruitless task, Mr. Brandon," he said when we were sented.

I expressed my conviction of success.

"How do you intend to proceed?" he then asked.

I remarked that I should be governed by. Madame Delanney, you are my prisoner "Madame Delantey, you are my prisoner?" I quietly sidd.

"What do you mean, sir?" she gasped, recoiling from me.

"That I arrest you for theft. When you next steal a detective's watch chain, you should be more expert.

As I spoke kopened the gate, and revealed the carriage and policemen.

"Come."
The scene caused her to cower before me. I then told her in hurried words that her whole carreer was known to me: that if she would

I assisted her into the carriage, and taking a scat opposite, we were whirled rapidly away toward the office. Although the hour was late. I found the in dustrious old chief up. He smiled graciously as I led in my beautiful prisoner, and narrate the incidents connected with her arrest. She was of course searched, but nothing was foun and values.

Upon conviction she confessed that she had first learned the art of theft from her husband, who was accustomed to show her how each scheme of villaby that was revealed to him in his connection with the Paris police, was perplexing. The ring before hoticed had a spring diamond knile for a setting, which would easily strike through any golden ligature, and she was thus easily able to secure, her priza. She pleaded poverty as like cause of her crime, as prior to the death of her husband she had lived honestly. She suffered a slight penalty, on condition that she would leave the country.

The fair widow seemed quite lively, and had it not been for her white, ghastly, expressionless face, she would have been handsome indeed. But added to this, there was a wild, feverish fire ever burning in her black, dazzling eyes, which at every varying emotion, seemed to throw off sparks like that from hardened steel when work.

We soon became intimate, and I was on the point of asking her to promenade in the garden and had just turned my head to look at Miss R—, when I heard a slight cibek, and felt a gentle pull about the waist. I did not start, for I almost expected it, but looking around carelessly, I met the cold features and ferry eyes of Madame Delauney turned upon me, and I thought I could perceive a purple hae rippling beneath the surface of her pale skin, like the waves of a lake. I did not look down, fortunately it was not necessary, for Madame Delauney's back was towards a large mirror, and as I glanced into it, I beheld my watch chain hanging from my yest packet! one side of it had been cut!

THE REINDEGEMENT OF POST PICKERS.

I am able to state, on the authority of a Cabinut efficer, that the troops so board the Brookiya, were really intended for the refrecement of Fort Pickens, and that official advices received during the last forty-eight hears, render it all but certain that the order to land them has been carried out some days I have been in the habit of visiting the or igi-mal Dubufe Paintings of Adam and Eve, for many years and was much surprised on visit-ing those at the Hall to be assured by the door keeper in the most positive terms that these paintings are the originals, that the announce-ment, a year or two since, that the originals were burned, was faise! If these paintings vere burned, was false! If these pa are the originals they have, I think, been badl by waskillful hands, and I would take the liberty of suggesting the attention of ar-lists and connoiseurs to an investigation of the truth of the assertion of the exhibition of the

It eccupies but little space, runs without noise, and at any speed desired, from 90 to 1800 revolutions per min utc. It is certainly a great and decided improvement over any Caloric Engine we have ever seen. It is just the things for railrosds, for pumping water, printing offices, dec, and any place where a light motor is wanted. It is well worth the time speat to see it. The Indians in Texas.

Wassington, Sarch 21, 1861.

The Indians are exhibiting an increased hostile feeling towards the whites. Intelligence from Texas, through private dispatches to gentlement in this city, show conclusively that the Camnohe Indians will make a desperate warfer upon Texas the moment they are satisfied hist the United States froops have left that State. The Camnohe have many grievances against the Texas, and are brave and desperance against the Texas, and are brave and desperance. Their movements are very sudden, and in warfare they are marciless. Of this important fact no stronger proof can be adduced than that the allied powers should have thought it proper, on a principle salishetery to themselves, to have interposed by force in the internal concerns of Spain. To what extent each interposition may be carried on the same principle, is a question to which all independent powers, whose governments differ from theirs, are interested—even those most smooth than the united States. A false arrest is severely punished by fine

These laws in their practical working have fully accomplished their design of keeping slavery from spreading to as to overwhelm notelety, and the state. The share-mark his hear shoulded, and sharer is decreasing society, and the state. The sure-mar has been sholished, and slavery is decreasing in Turkey. In many points the comparison with this system places American slavery in a most odices light. In the South men do not acruple to hold their own children as slaver, or to sell them to a trader. By the Mehammedan hav a slave who becomes a mother by her master, goes free with her children;—for "no man can hold a blood relation in bondage". In the South, emancipation on the soil is hindered by oppressive enactments. By Mohammedan law this is encouraged as a virtue, and the principle stated in the clight section above, favor is shown by lay to the furtifive. It is even demanded that the personal floery bills of the Northern States shall be repealed. But the Mohammedan law demands full legal proof of the fact of alwery, and punishes everely "a false arrest." Must not Christians hang their heads with same at this comparison?

The New Jersey Bridge Case Decided,

[From the Newer Mercury]

In the Court of Errors yesterday, the decision of the Chancelior is the case of the propristors of the bridges over the river Passaic and Hackensack against the Hooken Land Improvement Company was affirmed, Judges Van Dyke and Corseliaon dissesting. The decision practically is infavor of allowing the use of the bridge constructed by the defindants over the Heckensack, but not for any of the purposes other than what can be accomplished by a set of parallel rails without look-path, wason-path or readway for ordinary carriages. Notice was given by the Bridge Company that a writ of error would be taken to the United States Supreme Court at Washington, where all the points in the case. OIL COMPANY, will be fully examined and finally decided.

The seconsionists of North Carolina are trying a new game, as will be seen by the following item copied from the Charleston Courier.

It is reported to the Courier on information apparently reliable and direct, that a large error has been defected in the official re-rocts of the election for Coursettion in some of the Western counties in North Carolina. The carroction of the error (if our report be right) would change the result, or at least leave a tie.

This is a new and hold swindle to growd North Carolina out of the Union, with what success remains to be seen.
